Australian Shepherd

Unusually enough, the Australian Shepherd does not originate from Australia at all. In fact, this breed comes from the US. Intelligent and hardworking, the Australian Shepherd is a no-nonsense breed that pairs high intelligence and high energy. This breed is a loving family dog, but is best-suited for a family that is regularly on the move.

Maltese

The Maltese is a popular toy dog breed with ancient origins. Dating back over 2 millennia to Greece, it is by far the oldest toy dog breed in existence. The original breed was almost lost between the 17th and 18th centuries. The Maltese, as we know it today, is thought to be the result of British dog breeders, but it is also known that the Maltese is a direct descendant of other toy breeds like the Bichon Frise and the Havanese.

Pug

The Pug, or Pug Dog, is famous for its flat-faced appearance and large, soulful eyes. They are an ancient dog breed that originated in China over 2,000 years ago. They were originally developed as a refined pet of Chinese royalty along with the Pekingese and the Shih Tzu. During this time, the Pug was considered a national treasure that outsiders could only access if one was gifted to them.

Shih Tzu

The Shih Tzu originated in China centuries ago. Their name means "lion", so they are sometimes referred to as the "lion dog". They were developed by Imperial breeders in the palace who crossed the Lhasa Apso and Pekingese to create it. Because they were bred specifically for the royalty of Imperial China, they remained relatively unknown around the world until the 1930s. The AKC recognized the Shih Tzu as part of the Toy Group in 1969.

Yorkshire Terrier

The Yorkshire Terrier originates from the UK township of Yorkshire where they get their namesake. Yorkshire Terriers were first bred as “ratters” or dogs that could shimmy into small spaces to control rat populations. While they are now the most popular dog in the U.S. for being a wonderful companion, they haven’t lost their sense of adventure or determination.
